

ARE THE JAPS LOST TRIBES?

Tale Is Started by Anti Semites in Russia to Drive Jews Out of Country.

RUSSIAN FLEET IS STILL MISSING

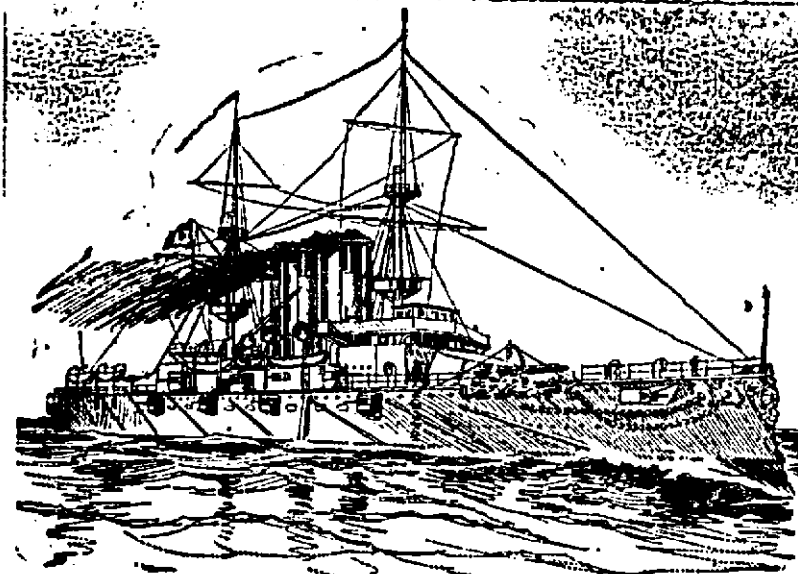

Japs Are Pushing Matters Forward with a Vim---No Delay in Rushing Troops to the Front--- Fleet Is Active.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.)

St. Petersburg, March 18.—A fanciful story started by the anti-Semitic press to the effect that the Japanese are the ten lost tribes of Israel is creating considerable excitement in all quarters of the country. The papers have taken the subject up and doing much to arouse another outbreak against the Jews on this ground.

boats war vessels and transports. Disembarkation has been difficult, but the Japanese have brought all necessary appliances. Pontoon jetties have been built and extend for hundreds of yards, and the transports brought their own landing barges.

The correspondent describes the landing movements and the disposal of the forces with some detail, and says:

JAPANESE BATTLESHIP SHIKISHIMA.

London, March 18.—The Japanese advance army is now at Anju, fifty miles north of its base, at Pingyang, in northern Korea.

Japanese and Russian outposts are now so close together that only the river Chong-cheng, north of Anju, separates them.

A Shanghai dispatch states that the American cruiser Cincinnati, which arrived at Chefoo, brought the report that 300 Russians had encountered 200 Japanese near Pingyang, and that the latter force was annihilated. This report, it is believed, refers to outpost fighting some time ago, before the Japanese advance had reached Anju.

Russians Cross the Yalu.

A late dispatch from Seoul says: "The Japanese authorities have been advised that the Russian cavalry in northern Korea has partly recrossed the Yalu river and that a Cossack battery has also withdrawn. A small Russian force still occupies Chongju."

Every fugitive bit of news that escapes the vigilance of the Japanese censor, points to land operations near the Yalu on a large scale in the near future.

A correspondent at Chefoo, who has just visited Chinnampo, Korea, says: "On the way to Chemulpo we passed a constant succession of Japanese transports. Three thousand Japanese landed at Chemulpo at the end of last week."

Japanese Are Alert.

A correspondent at Wenhaiwei says: "I arrived at Pingyang inlet on March 13 and proceeded to Chinnampo. Navigation was difficult owing to the drift ice, I found anchored there Iron Mountain, Mich., March 18.—Thursday the water was turned into the large steel flues by the hydraulic works, two miles from here, which furnish the power to run the Chapin mine of the United States steel corporation, one of the largest ore mines in the world. Two of the large compressors were also started. In a day or so the other large compressors will be started, which will mark the beginning of the end of the extensive and costly improvements which have been made at the big hydraulic plant of the steel corporation. The hydraulic plant probably ranks second to the plant at Niagara Falls.

SELL SEATS FOR CONFERENCE

Positions Secured for the World's Meeting of Methodists.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 18.—The opening sale of seats for the world's conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at Hazard's pavilion in May has just been held. Boxes and gallery seats were secured by prominent local church people for themselves and Eastern friends. Sixty-nine boxes were sold for $7,091. As much as $175 was paid for one box and the lowest that any sold for was $40, or $10 a chair.

Lincoln, Neb., March 18.—Bishop Bonacum of the Catholic see of Lincoln has been defeated in the long-pending controversy with Father William Murphy, one of the priests of his diocese, by an opinion rendered by the Supreme court. The court affirms in every particular the decision of the district court of Seward county and enjoins the bishop from disturbing Father Murphy in the possession of the church property at the town of Seward.

The court announces in its opinion that its rulings will be in accord with those of the ecclesiastical court when there is no infraction of the civil law, but that it is unable to concur in the bishop's contention that the court of Rome has ruled in his favor and against the priest. Bishop Bonacum's appeal is dismissed.

Many months ago the bishop removed the priest from his charge as pastor at Seward and later excommunicated him, but Father Murphy with the aid of the trustees retained possession of the church property and continued to hold services.

DYNAMITE USED AGAINST POLICE

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.)

Liege, Belgium, March 18.—An infernal machine exploded outside the house of the commissioner of police this morning, injuring seven men seriously and four slightly. Night Patrolman Miller shot and probably fatally wounded Bert Ransford at Cadillac, Mich. Ransford had come home intoxicated and flourishing a revolver. Officers were sent for and Ransford fired at one of them when they arrived and as he turned toward Miller the latter shot him.

The attempt of the disinherited relatives to break the will of Mrs. Abbie H. Stuart, a well-known club woman of Olympia, Wash., and secure the division of a $100,000 estate left by her has resulted in failure.

The estate will be divided among Mrs. Eva W. Gove of Tacoma, Wash.; Mary Lowe Dickinson, philanthropist and temperance lecturer of New York; and Mrs. Sarah M. Pitt of San Francisco, all personal friends of Mrs. Stuart.

MAY PROVE MRS. DYE INNOCENT

Poisoned Candy Sent to Miss Nelson Was Not Mailed at Boone.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 18.—By means of a powerful magnifying glass it has been discovered that the box of poisoned candy sent to Miss Rena Nelson at Pierre, S. D., does not bear the Boone, Iowa, postmark. The postmark on the package is of the straight line series, while that on the box is irregular. The discovery will have a tendency to prove the innocence of Mrs. Sherman Dye, who has been accused of sending the fatal package.

BUILDING COLLAPSES UNDER HEAVY STRAIN

Southern Express Company's Office and Warehouse at New Orleans Gives Way to Weight of Hall.

New Orleans, March 18.—Half a million dollars' worth of damage was done by a terrific wind, hail and rain storm which swept over this city. The Southern Express company's office and warehouse on Perdido street collapsed under the weight of hail and rain, and three teamsters were seriously injured. The caving of the hall in the cave troughs prevented the rain from running off, and the rear of the building yielded under the weight. In the St. Charles hotel the roaring of hail on the 20,000 square feet of glass roofing created a panic.

MEET TODAY TO DECIDE DATES

Republican State Central Committee is in Session in Madison This Afternoon.

ONE CONVENTION PROBABLE NOW

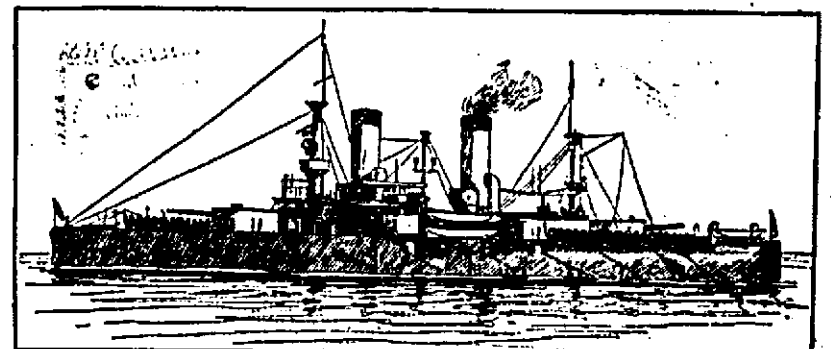

This Seems To Be the Wish of the Governor—May Not Decide Date at Meeting Today—Up To La Follette.

(Special to The Gazette.)

Madison, Wis., March 18.—The state central committee of the Wisconsin republican party is deliberating this afternoon in the Grand Army hall here. Deliberating! Every hint or indication of the meeting is to the effect that the element of deliberation will be utterly absent and the committeemen, who were virtually named two years ago at the Madison convention by the present governor, are merely carrying out the cut and

3. Set the date of the convention for May 18 or thereabouts.

There is some suggestion that there is a fourth part of the program, being a formal vote of approval of each of the cities named as the place for holding the state convention, and then formally vote and determine that the convention be held in Madison in the university gymnasium.

RUSSIAN BATTLESHIP PETROPAVLOVSK.

dried program the head of the administration machine is dished up to them. The program is as follows:

1. Formally declare that it would be unwise and a waste of energy and expense for the uniform precedent of two state conventions in presidential years to be followed, and then determine that there shall this year be one convention to place in nomination a ticket of state officers, choose four delegates at large to the republican national nominating convention and make a combination platform of state and national issues.

2. Listen to the representations of al of the administration and the handling by the governor of the emergency of the capitol fire, and if the governor has set his heart upon this the thing will doubtless be done. If there is a deviation from the above program, more than the dotting of an "i" or the crossing of a "t," it will greatly surprise the followers of the little general of the executive office. The whole matter is undoubtedly determined in all but the formalities of the meeting and the session is expected to develop little more than perfunctory carrying out of the will of the leader.

PLAN ADJOURNMENT EARLY; CONGRESS IS FOXY NOW

Republican Steering Committee Is Handling the Democrats Like So Much Wax—No Chance for Trouble.

Washington, March 18.—The republican steering committee of the senate has decided to press appropriation bills to the front, sidetrack all legislation likely to excite party strife, and then, if the session is prolonged, place the responsibility for the delay on the Democrats.

One of the members of the committee earnestly advocated adjourning by April 15, but it was agreed that this would be impossible. The committee discussed an order of business for the rest of the session and decided to sidetrack the general building measures, the several labor bills, the Hepburn-Dolliver liquor bill and all similar legislation.

Executive Clears the Way.

It is said one of the reasons for meeting at this early date was the issuance of an executive order in lieu of service pension legislation, which removed one of the principal factors which might lengthen the session of congress. With this out of the way, and nearly all other obstacles to early adjournment removed, there is believed by the steering committee to be less likelihood for a demand for congressional investigations of the postoffice and other departments.

CREDIT FOR DEMOCRATS.

Mr. Tawney Says His Party Voted for Anti-Trust Laws.

Washington, March 18.—Another hornet's nest was stirred up in the house. Representative Mann, in one of his attacks on the postoffice committee, caused Chairman Overstreet to admit that the appropriations for fuel, light and rent had been utilized to pay for clerk hire, whereupon Mr. Williams bitterly demanded the names of the postoffice department officials who had taken such liberties that they might be impeached. He said the department was "absolutely rotten from turret to foundation." As a reply to this attack, Mr. Southwick of New York had read an editorial from the New York World giving Republicans credit for anti-trust legislation and the merger prosecution.

Mr. Williams retorted that Gov. Van Sant forced the administration to take the step, and the Minnesota executive was "an Indian blanket Republican who refused to consult headquarters."

Mr. Tawney said every Democrat voted against the anti-trust legislation. Mr. Galnes shouted that the Democrats did vote solidly for the Sherman law, and there was such confusion that he had no chance to reply further.

INDORSE JAI ALAI.

Senators Approve Game for Which Gen. Wood Granted Concession.

Washington, March 18.—August senators found jai alai, the game for which Gen. Wood, while military governor of Cuba, granted a concession, highly entertaining, and amused themselves for more than an hour in a merry romp in the senate chamber, behind the screen of an executive session. All the paraphernalia for playing jai alai was assembled and the features of the play were explained by Senators Proctor, Teller, Foraker, Scott, Pettus, Cockrell, Quarles, Blackburn and others, who were initiated by experts who appeared before the military affairs committee when it heard the charges against Gen. Wood. It was explained that the gambling features of the game were not essential, but it was asserted that the company in which

RAILROADS TALK OF IRRIGATION

THEIR INTERESTS IN WESTERN GOVERNMENT LANDS.

WHAT PROJECT WOULD MEAN

Another Letter From Guy Mitchell
On This Important Subject—
Questions To Be Up.

There is considerable talk among interests represented at Washington, which do not wish any disturbance of the present land laws, to the effect that the campaign favoring this repeal is being promoted by the western railroads with the idea of increasing the value of their own lands and especially their land rights in the forest reserves. The statement being made that the repeal of the timber and stone act, the desert land act and the commutation clause of the homestead act would shut out the settler from the government lands and force him to buy railroad lands. This specious argument will bear analysis from no point of view. In the first place there is no thought of repealing the homestead law which allows the settler to take up 160 acres of government land anywhere among the half billion acres of the remaining public domain, even that reserved for government irrigation purposes. The effect of the repeal of these laws would be not to stop settlement but to stop speculative entry of immense tracts of land, simply for the purpose of "holding it for a rise" or acquiring it as additions to already immense stock ranges. Possibly such a repeal might have the effect of increasing certain railroad lands. If so it would result in two things, either stimulating the railroads to get more settlers upon it, along their lines, or making it more expensive and difficult for the big stockmen to add to their grazing domains from this source, either of which would be a good thing.

But the entire ownership of the railroads in land is a mere bagatelle as compared with the government domain. The government is the great land owner. The railroads, as must be recognized, are more anxious than for anything else, that the government shall improve its own property. Anyone of the transcontinental lines would gain more through its traffic from a single great three or four million dollar project, irrigating perhaps a couple of hundred thousand acres of land, than the value of all the railroads. GUY E. MITCHELL.

GOLF DAYS ARE NOT FAR DISTANT

Trials of the Early Golfer—Lost Balls
Somewhat Are Never Found
By the Owner.

"Fore!"
"I'll caddy, tell that bloomin' fat chap over there to move his carcass about ten yards to the one side of the course while I make a desperate effort to clear that gully. Bunkers enough on these grounds without any human ones."

The caddy moved reluctantly; the man moves still more reluctantly and the golfer, after two or three trial whiffs, neatly lifts the ball and sends it sailing over the ravine. Perchance it lands in a clump of bushes, which invariably skirt the ravine. In such a case the golfer is to be congratulated if he is alone, for the expressions such a mishap conjure up are liable to offend the members of the gentler sex. Then the caddy, acting under his employer's instructions, scrambles into the underbrush and finally comes out with this announcement:

"They hain't no balls in there. I looked all over. Must 'a' gone some'er else."

The youngster's pockets bulge suspiciously but the golfer is too trustful to ask if he didn't make a mistake and "freeze onto" the ball himself. If he should ask such a question the lad would reply:

"Guess not. Them balls I got belong to another fellow. I'm just keeping 'em for him. I'll sell 'y' one, though, if 'y' hain't got none left."

Such are the trials of the golfer, but, withal, there is nothing that conjures up such pleasurable enthusiasm among the lovers of the outdoor sport as the contemplation of the coming golf days.

It will only be a few weeks more when the golfers, clad in the approved style for the sport and with bag a-shoulder, will sail forth to gambol on the green—likewise, perchance, in the tall grasses that surround the green in the hills. But no matter what degree his skill, if he be an enthusiast, he will be out on the links every day that the weather and business permit.

SPRING BRINGS GRAVE DANGERS

Accumulated Waste Matter Will Soon
Be Set Free—Prompt Action Is Required.

The coming of spring brings with it a grave danger, which, however, may be avoided if property owners act promptly. When the weather finally breaks up there will be set free a vast amount of waste material which has been accumulating on top of the ground. The ground has been frozen hard since early in November. A large amount of refuse of all kinds has been accumulating, and when the first thaw occurs much of the rubbish will find its way to the surface. While the weather remains cold, this waste material remains innocuous. But as soon as dormant bacteria which this rubbish contains will become active and produce disease. Therefore, it behooves every household to clean up his premises at the earliest possible moment and thereby prevent the refuse from doing harm. It has been years since Janesville has had such a long cold winter, and the amount of waste material that has accumulated will be enormous. Yet in other years when winters have been short and open there has been enough rubbish left on the surface of the ground to produce a marked menace.

TAX COMMISSION HOLD A SESSION

Illinois Central Attorneys Told Them
What to Do and What Not To Do.

The state tax commission was cautioned against applying the average mileage system of valuation to property of the Illinois Central road in Wisconsin, at a hearing of that road yesterday before the commissioners at Madison. The tax commission, assessing the sleeping car and express companies that operate in this state determine the aggregate value of the systems, divide it by the number of miles, to find the average value per mile, then assess the Wisconsin mileage on the basis of the average value per mile of the entire system. Burr W. Jones of Madison, Wisconsin attorney for the Illinois Central, and M. L. Tarbet of Chicago, the tax commissioner of the road, presented the facts before the tax commissioners, asserting, among other things, that the mileage of the company in this state is maintained at a loss. The two Wisconsin branches, to Madison and Dodgeville, do not earn enough to cover the actual operating expenses, while the great Illinois Central railroad system is a valuable earner of profits. Therefore it would be unjust to assess the Wisconsin mileage upon an average-value plan. The law provides the average mileage valuation plan of assessment in the case of the assessment of railroad property, leaving the proper mode of assessment to the discretion and judgment of the commissioners.

The hearing of the Illinois Central took the nature of an inquiry in which the tax commissioners availed themselves of an opportunity to become informed, rather than being an appearance on the part of the company's representative to argue or protest.

A number of small northern Wisconsin roads were also heard. Several small roads are scheduled to appear today. The Wisconsin Central hearing, which was to have been held today, was postponed at the request of the company until next week.

Favorable Responses.

Secretary Frederick Brockhausen of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor is credited with the statement that a favorable response has been received from many quarters to the proposition of organizing the public school teachers of the state into a union.

Do Not Favor It
Janesville teachers who have been approached on the subject are not favorably disposed. They prefer to take whatever steps may at any time seem advisable in the direction of organization for the purpose of securing better wages, of their own volition and without outside help or affiliation.

NO USE TRYING TO DISSEMBLE

Evansville Tribune Says Real Cussedness Exists in Its City, and Points to Suspicious Packages.

The Evansville Tribune takes issue with a contemporary on the argument that there is no cussedness existing in the city. This is what it says: It is only necessary to take note of the numerous suspicious packages received at the depot and express office and returned empty and follow their delivery and those who follow them that all is not just as it should be in a no-cussedness city, and by keeping your ears and eyes open many other things the natural following results of these suspicious packages may be seen sufficient to convince the most skeptical that all is not as it should be and is represented. It is an insult to any citizen of this place who is not totally blind to say to him that there is no rottenness here, or that he is after penny-ante notoriety. Some of you need not go outside of your business places to see sufficient evidence to hang a person if it was a case of murder.

THE POWER OF STEAM.

Many May See But It Takes Genius to Realize.

When James Watt saw the steam causing the kettle lid to jump up and down he said "There must be power in that steam that it can lift such a weight."

There was.

Millions prior to him had seen the same phenomenon and regarded it as an unexplained mystery.

Recent scientific research has put its finger on the "cause" of Dandruff, Falling Hair, and consequent Baldness, and has unearthed a life force which causes the life from the roots of human hair.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys this germ and consequently restores the hair to its natural state.

MEN AND PARTIES.
Much discussion has been had of late about non-partisanship, and men who have apparently given the matter but little thought, seem impressed with the notion that parties can be dismantled and reorganized at will.

This is a mistaken notion for parties in this and every other republic are the foundation of government and without them either chaos or monarchy would speedily result. The government of the nation, the state, the county, or the city, is dependent upon parties for existence.

These parties are called political but they are just as important as though called by any other name. In this country the men who compose them are independent citizens, and to their credit, be it said, that the most of them are loyal to the party with which they are allied.

Many of them may not be able to give a well defined reason for the faith that is in them. This is just as true of church membership and associations. Both are handed down through families from generation to generation, and the child subscribes to his father's creed without knowing much about it, the same as the boy adopts his father's political faith.

Sometimes a great wave of religious enthusiasm sweeps over the land and the churches are strengthened and sometimes a wave of indignation engulfs a political party and disaster is threatened, but these are exceptions and both churches and political parties take on strength by normal growth in natural ways. History repeats itself every now and then concerning both churches and parties, and new sects and new parties spring into existence.

The recruits for Christian Science, Faith Cure, and Dowdism, age from some other faith, just as greenbackism, prohibition and various other new political ventures find their recruits from the old line parties. In spite of these disaffections the church and the parties go on, and both are stronger today than ever before.

The independent voter, so much discussed a few years ago, has discovered that more can be accomplished through his party than by an independent movement, and so he returns to the fold and again pledges party allegiance.

The man, without a party is a political orphan entitled to more sympathy than respect because his estrangement is voluntary.

It is a popular as well as an ideal notion that all city government should be non-partisan and free from political bias, but this can never be accomplished permanently except through the consent and by the hearty endorsement of both political parties and this is seldom done.

Because these conditions exist it does not follow that poor government need result.

The citizens of every community make up the political parties. When these parties become corrupt it is by the consent and through the negligence of the better element connected with them.

It is not difficult to keep a party pure, if good men will assume the responsibility which is upon them. It remains for the citizens to see that none but good men shall be selected to serve public interests.

GOOD CITY GOVERNMENT.

It is safe to say that every tax payer in the city, as well as every law abiding citizen, desires good government in municipal affairs. In these days of widespread intelligence, it is difficult to find a man who does not take interest to greater or less extent in state and national affairs.

Men sacrifice time and money to vote in November, feeling that a great burden of responsibility rests upon them. If the president should lose their vote, it would be an irreparable loss. While this kind of loyalty is commendable and while every man owes it to himself, as well as to the nation to exercise the great right of suffrage, the fact remains that many of these enthusiastic voters are indifferent when it comes to selecting city officials, and taking part in the most important election of the year.

If the city of Janesville had been blotted from the map and no votes recorded, there would have been no perceptible difference in the results of the last state or national election, but a single vote sometimes changes the complexion of a ward, and a handful of votes frequently decides the destiny of a city.

Property interests as well as questions of morality, enter very largely into city government. It touches the home and the individual at every point. It is of vital importance to every citizen who appreciates in any degree the city that shelters him, and which he delights to call a home, and yet the polling lists show that there are hundreds of men who pose as good citizens, and yet who shirk all responsibility when it comes to shaping city government.

Many of these men are found in churches, and some of them are behind the sacred desk. It is a rare thing to hear from the pulpit a plea for good city government along the lines of individual responsibility.

Many good people wrap themselves in the cloak of indifference, ignoring the fact that their vote and influence is necessary. If good results are to be obtained, it is easy to shirk responsibility by claiming that they, the people, have nominated and elected poor men for positions of trust, unmindful of the fact that we, the people, who stay at home are the parties directly responsible.

Janesville is a goodly city. It is entitled to the best government of any city in the state, and this it may have if the voters who believe in good government will put that belief in practice.

It is the doers, and not the sayers, who exert influence in the world, and it is the voters and workers, and not the hickers, who determine what shall be the character of government. The ranks of the former should be largely augmented in Janesville. When this is done there will be no occasion for complaint. The city will maintain a clear and wholesome administration, and will prosper accordingly.

The republicans should see to it that none but good men are selected at the caucuses tonight.

The city convention convenes tomorrow afternoon for the purpose of placing a republican city ticket in the field. Only men should be selected who will be a credit to the city.

This is the one night of the year when every republican in the city can afford to devote an hour to good government.

No man is too good in this world to be excused from public obligation. Good people are needed at caucuses and convention.

Don't stay away from the caucuses tonight, and then complain for twelve months about the men selected as public servants.

Every man has a voice in the caucuses, and one voice is just as potent as another.

Every republican should be present at the caucuses tonight.

One hour for voting at the republican caucus tonight.

Republican caucuses tonight.

dow was shot by frate neighbors, who claim they thought it was a tom cat.

Hudson Star-Times:—Nearly every Wisconsin congressman is charged with using his influence to secure advantages for postoffices in his district. Suppose they did not do all in their power honorably to help on their districts, how long would their constituents let them stay in Washington.

Waukesha Dispatch:—The clamor of the state press for an investigation of the capital disaster is right and proper, but it is exceedingly doubtful if the real facts will ever be known. The efficiency of the capital employees, whose watchfulness should have prevented the fire, needs no attestation to fix the blame. The capital park at least was saved and congratulations should be acknowledged.

El Paso Herald:—Shoe dealers are going to insist on the return of the tooth-pick tooth foot gear and now is your time to get a toe or two amputated so as to be ready to meet the style when it arrives. It was a sad mistake of nature to give man a foot widest at the front end, in view of the esthetic ideas of the shoe makers.

Grant County Herald:—Non-partisanship in judicial elections strikes a popular chord with the public. Just why the administration people should be so overly solicitous of the interests of their certain candidate, is unexplainable. They really ought to remember the political buzz-saw they ran against in the Third district a few days ago—"long last past."

East Chitra Leader:—The three Kentucky juries which convicted Cal. Powers as an accessory to the murder of Goebel and sentenced him to death were wholly composed of Democrats except the last one on which there was one republican whose wife was informed that he would be assassinated at once if he did not agree to a verdict of guilty. Mexico, Turkey and Assyria are pointing the finger of scorn at us.

Madison Journal:—"Some of them (signers of the La Follette address) are so wealthy and have such business connections as to raise the question, whether they are really interested in the fight for the common people." As the governor likes to characterize his ambitions for office, Charles F. Foley is worth about $2,000,000; ex-Gov. Hoard is figured at $500,000; E. P. Bacon at about $200,000; A. R. Hall at $60,000; our Mr. Hanks is out of reach of worry, and Isaac Stephenson, the richest man in the state, is reputed worth between $15,000,000 and $30,000,000. The signatures of "God's patient poor" will probably appear later.

PAINLESS DENTISTRY.

Mr. Hugh Miller, Blacksmith on N. River St. near Doty's Mill, Janesville, stated today that he had just come from the office of Dr. Richards, Dentist, where he had some eleven teeth extracted. He furthermore says that the whole job was over in three minutes and was absolutely painless to him. He now considers it a proven truth that Dr. Richards does do Painless Work.

ALLAN LOVEJOY DIED AT DAWN

HE FELL INTO A DEEP SLUMBER WITH NO AWAKENING.

A LEADING CITIZEN OF STATE

Deceased Came to Janesville Half a Century Ago—His Many and Varied Interests.

Peacefully, apparently with no attendant struggle or pain, life passed from Allan P. Lovejoy at four o'clock this morning. His wife had visited his room a short time before and found him resting comfortably, no sign of any change in his condition being apparent. When she next entered his room at seven o'clock he was dead. Dr. St. John was hastily summoned and found on examination that the heart had ceased to beat several hours before.

A Gradual Decline
The news of his decease was a shock to his many friends in the city although he was known to have been suffering a gradual decline for the past two years. He was apparently in as good health as usual yesterday. Telegrams were promptly sent to his two sons who are attending Yale college and they will reach home tomorrow evening.

A Prominent Citizen
Mr. Lovejoy was one of the most prominent citizens of his city and state. He had lived in Janesville for over half a century and had played a prominent part in the upbuilding of Janesville. He was a Knight Templar Mason and a member of the Knights of Pythias and his loss will be deeply mourned by all who knew him.

Born in Maine
Allen P. Lovejoy was born in the town of Wayne, state of Maine, on March 20, 1825. He was one of ten children, his father, Nathan Lovejoy, being a farmer who had removed from New Hampshire while yet a young man. After finishing his education and teaching several years in the district schools, he learned the trade of a carpenter. Before he was twenty-five he resolved to seek his fortune in the west. He reached Wisconsin in 1850, arriving in Janesville on foot after a long walk from Milwaukee. He found work at his trade and was soon enabled to start in business for himself as a contractor and builder.

His Varied Interests
In 1859 he undertook a new venture, opening in that year his first lumberyard. Others were established in 1863, 1865, 1870, and 1874, and branches operated at Oregon, Brooklyn, and other points. He had been a director of the First National bank for twenty-five years and president of the Janesville Machine Co. for a similar period. Besides his local interests he was a stockholder in the Marine National bank in Milwaukee, vice-president of the Bank of Commerce at Superior, and a stockholder and officer in the Bradley Co. at Tomahawk and other lumber companies in Superior, Wisconsin, and the states of Oregon, Louisiana, and California.

Served State and City
With all of his varied commercial interests Mr. Lovejoy found time to serve his city and state. He served a term in the lower house of the legislature in 1869 and was state senator from 1871 to 1889. In 1881 he was elected mayor of Janesville and gave the city an able and efficient administration.

Married in 1880
On May 29, 1880, Mr. Lovejoy was married to Miss Julia A. Stow. Of the four children one died in infancy. The two sons, Allen and Henry, are attending Yale college and Julia is a student in the Janesville high school.

DR. WHITING GETS A BEAUTIFUL WORK

From His Friend, Dr. Nicholas Senn, of Chicago, the Famous Surgeon.

Remembered by Dr. Senn
Dr. J. B. Whiting was pleasantly remembered a few days ago by his old friend, Dr. Nicholas Senn of Chicago. Dr. Senn is the author of several exhaustive works on surgery and Dr. Whiting has just received a package containing a number of volumes with the following note:

"I cannot forget the kind encouragement you gave me when I was young and unknown, and I think of you often. May you live to do good many years."

Mr. Whiting recalls the fact that years ago while in attendance at a meeting of the State Medical association in Fond du Lac, he first met Dr. Senn, then a young man, practicing in an obscure town in the northern part of the state.

Dr. Senn had a paper on surgery. With the bones of a skeleton fastened to a board he illustrated his topic and his analysis was so clear and comprehensive that Dr. Whiting was captivated by his strength and personality and immediately made his acquaintance and congratulated him.

The doctor predicted for him a brilliant future, and his expectations have more than been realized. The friendship so early established remained as a pleasant memory and the two men have long been fast friends. Dr. Joe Whiting was later a student of Dr. Senn's and is under obligations to him for valuable assistance.

To the Voters: To the republican vote of the second ward I wish to say that the use of my name as a candidate for alderman is unwarranted. While appreciating the support tendered I have not the time to give the office attention.

D. H. HIGGINS.

CAUCUSES HELD THIS EVENING

REPUBLICANS TO PLACE TICKET IN THE FIELD.

GENERAL GOSSIP OF MEN

Possible Candidates in the Different
Wards—Ruger for City
Attorney.

Men with little bundles of white tickets are busy today initiating the unsophisticated into the mysteries of party politics. In all the wards but the fifth republicans are busy discussing the merits of the different aldermanic candidates. Tonight at 7:30 the polling booths will be opened for one hour and the nominations made.

The First Ward
Gossip as to candidates in the first ward name the following as possible candidates: W. H. Merritt, A. A. Jackson, William Groves, and Stanley Tallman. W. P. Carle is spoken of as candidate for supervisor. The voting will be at the west side fire engine house.

Second Ward
In the second ward there have been numerous men talked of but thus far no one has openly declared himself except John J. Constock. The voting place will be the east side fire station.

Third Ward
There are three candidates in the third ward. Frank Jackman, Frank Baack and L. L. Fletcher. There is much rivalry in the ward as the nomination usually carries with it the election. The polling place is at the voting booth at the east end of the Court street bridge. J. L. Bear is the candidate or supervisor.

Fourth Ward
A. G. Anderson is the prominently talked of candidate in the fourth ward. The voting place here is the voting booth at 53 South Academy street. It is rumored a dark horse will appear tonight but his name is kept quiet.

Fifth Ward
According to a well posted fifth warder, it is possible that no republican will be named for alderman of this ward. The city delegates will be instructed for Fathers for city treasurer and William Ruger, Jr., for city attorney.

Fathers and Ruger
Thus far no opposition has come out for City Treasurer Fathers' renomination and William Ruger, Jr., is thus far the only announced candidate for city attorney. The city convention will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the city hall.

WATER MAIN BURST ON COURT STREET

Sidewalks and Cellars Flooded Early
This Morning by Bad Break.

This morning between four and six o'clock Court street was a mass of water caused by the bursting of the water company's main in the vicinity of the Court street bridge. The sidewalks in front of Neysen Bros' livery, David Brown's feed-store and Hildebrand's fur shop were flooded; also the basement of Brown's feed-store which was filled with water. The water was shut off and a force of men were put to work to repair the damage. All the water connections on the street are shut off until the main can be repaired. The ground is frozen to a depth here, and the brick pavement and concrete foundation makes the work all the more difficult. The company has had but few bursts mains this season.

JESSE SPALDING DIED YESTERDAY.

Millionaire Chicago Lumber King
Passed Away at His Home in That City.

Word has been received from Chicago that Jesse Spalding, millionaire lumberman of Chicago, died yesterday after a long illness. Mr. Spalding will be remembered by many Janesville people as the uncle of Mrs. Anna Hanchett. Half a century ago he began establishing lumber mills in the northwest. He belonged to a stock company which built the first planing mill in Chicago. Other mills were started in Wisconsin. For eight years he was president of the Sturgeon Bay and Lake Michigan Canal and Harbor company. He was largely instrumental in building Camp Douglas during the civil war. In 1883 Mr. Spalding was collector of the port of Chicago. In 1889 Mr. Spalding was made government director of the Union Pacific railroad. For three years he was a member of the Chicago city council. For a time subsequent to 1899 Mr. Spalding was president of the Chicago Union Traction company. He was a heavy stockholder in the North-Western and other railroads. His wealth is estimated at several millions.

Art Exhibit
The Janesville Art League announces with pleasure the dedication of the library, by an informal opening in the art room, with a public exhibition of celebrated paintings, Wednesday afternoon, March 23, continuing three days. Of the 100 pictures the famous painting "The Pea Pickers" by Charles Sprague Pearce, alone is valued at $1,000.

FOUR BELOIT MEN WERE IN AT-

THE WORK IS NOT FINISHED

Several Janesville Men Have Ap-

Over in the courthouse today the grand jury devoted its attention to the iniquities of Beloit—at least that was what was presumed. Four of the witnesses summoned were: J. A. Lundy, A. Johnson, Harvey Tower, and Clarke Schman.

One Was An Editor
The last-named of the witnesses was editor of "The Citizenship," a magazine published in the Line city last year which was to contain a number of sensational exposures of society before it met an untimely death.

Not Safe to Guess Right
The grand jury is perfectly willing that people should hazard a guess as to what they are doing but they must not guess right. If they do there will be trouble. In fact there has been some already.

Moran of the Lady Letty

By
FRANK NORRIS.

Author of "The Octopus," "The Fitz," Etc.

Copyright, 1898, by
S. S. McClure Company

Then this disastrous voyage, perhaps the first in their new era: the combustion in the coal, the panic terror of the crew and their desertion of the bark, and the sturdy resolution of the father and daughter to bring the Letty in-to work her into port alone. They had failed. The father had died from gas. The girl, at least for the moment, was crazed from its effects. But the bark had not been abandoned. The owner was on board. Kitchell was wrong. She was no derelict. Not one penny could they gain by her salvage.

For an instant a wave of bitter disappointment passed over Wilbur as he saw his $30,000 dwindling to nothing. Then the instincts of habit reassured themselves. The taxpayer in him was stronger than the freebooter after all. He felt that it was his duty to see to it that the girl had her rights. Kitchell must be made aware of the situation—must be told that Moran, the daughter, the captain's heir, was on board the schooner; that the "kid" found in the wheel box was a girl. But on second thoughts that would never do. Above all things, the brute Kitchell must not be shown that a girl was aboard the schooner on which he had absolute command, nor, setting the question of Moran's sex aside, must Kitchell know her even as the dead captain's heir. There was a difference in the men here, and Wilbur appreciated it. Wilbur, the law-abiding taxpayer, was a weakling in comparison with Kitchell, the freebooter and beach-comber, in sight of his prize.

"Son," said the captain, making a bundle of all the papers, "take these over to my bunk and hide 'em under the donkey's breakfast. Stop a bit," he added as Wilbur started away. "I'll go with you. We'll have to bury the old man."

Throughout all the afternoon the captain had been drinking the whisky from the decanter found in the cabin. Now he stood up unsteadily, and, raising his glass, exclaimed:

"Sonny, here's to Kitchell, Wilbur & Co., beachcombers, unlimited. What do you say, hey?"

"I only want to be sure that we're right to the bark," answered Wilbur.

"Right to 'er—right to 'er!" he coughed the captain. "Strike me blind, I'd like to see any one try an' take her away from Alvin Kitchell now!"

And he thrust out his chin at Wilbur. "Well, so much the better, then," said Wilbur, pocketing the papers. The pair ascended to the deck.

The burial of Captain Sternersen was a dreadful business. Kitchell, far gone in whisky, stood on the house issuing his orders, drinking from one of the decanters he had brought up with him. He had already rifled the dead man's pockets and had even taken away the boots and fur lined cap. Cloths were cut from the spanker and rolled around the body. Then Kitchell ordered the peak halyards unrove and used as lashings to tie the canvas around the corpse. The red and white flags, the distress signals, were still bound on the halyards.

"Leave 'em on! Leave 'em on!" commanded Kitchell. "Use 'em as a shroud! All ready now; stow 'em by to let her go!"

Wilbur looked over at the schooner and noted, with immense relief, that Moran was not in sight. Suddenly an abrupt reaction took place in the captain's addled brain.

"Can't bury 'um 'thout 'is teeth," he mumbled solemnly. He laid back the canvas and replaced the set. "Ole man 'I ha'n't see 'I I kep' 'is teeth. Strike, look a' that! I put 'em in upside down. Nev' min', upst' down, downst' up, whaz odds, all same with ole Bill. Hey, ole Bill, all same with you, hey?" Suddenly he began to howl with laughter. "I think o' bein' buried with your teeth upst' down! Oh, me, but that's a good grind! Stan' by to leave ole Uncle Bill over! Ready, heave, an' away she goes!" He ran to the side, waving his hat and looking over. "Gooby, ole Bill, by by! There you go, an' the signal o' distress roun' you—H I! I'm in need of assistance! Lord, here comes the sharks! Look, look! Look at 'um fight! Look at 'um takin' ole Bill! I'm in need of assistance! I sh'd say you were, ole Bill!"

Wilbur looked once over the side in the churning, lashing water, then drew back, sick to vomiting. But in less than thirty seconds the water was quiet. Not a shark was in sight.

"Get over t' the Bertha with those papers, son," ordered Kitchell. "I'll hide here and dig up sh' morn loot. I'll gut this ole pill box from stern to stem post fore I'll leave. I won't leave a copper rivet in 'er, notta cove rivet, do y' hear?" he shouted, his face purple with unnecessary rage.

Wilbur returned to the schooner with the two Chinamen, leaving Kitchell alone on the bark. He found the girl sitting by the rudderhead almost as he had left her, looking about her with vague, unseeing eyes.

"Your name is Moran, isn't it," he asked—"Moran Sternersen?"

"Yes," she said after a pause, then looked curiously at a bit of turned rope on the deck. Nothing more could be got out of her. Wilbur talked to her at length and tried to make her understand the situation, but it was evident she did not follow. However, at each mention of her name she would answer:

"Yes, yes; I'm Moran."

Wilbur turned away from her, biting his nether lip in perplexity.

"Now, what am I going to do?" he muttered. "What a situation! If I tell the captain, it's all up with the girl. If he didn't kill her, he'd do worse—might do both. If I don't tell him, there goes her birthright, $30,000, and she alone in the world. It's begun to go already," he added, listening to the sounds that came from the bark. Kitchell was raging to and fro in the cabin in a frenzy of drink, up in hand, smashing glassware, hacking into the woodwork, singing the while at the top of his voice.

"That's the kind of man I have to deal with," muttered Wilbur. "It's encouraging, and there's no one to talk to. Not much help in a Chinaman and a crazy girl in a man's skins. It's about the biggest situation you ever faced, Ross Wilbur, and you're all alone. What are you going to do?"

He acknowledged with considerable humiliation that he could not get the better of Kitchell either physically or mentally. Kitchell was a more powerful man than he and cleverer. The captain was in his element now, and he was the commander. On shore it would have been vastly different. The city bred fellow, with a policeman always in call, would have known how to act.

"I simply can't stand by and see that hog plundering everything she's got. What's to be done?"

And suddenly, while the words were yet in his mouth, the sun was wiped from the sky like writing from a slate, the horizon blackened, vanished, a long white line of froth whipped across the sea and came on blissing. A hollow note boomed out, boomed, swelled and grew rapidly to a roar.

An icy chill stabbed the air. Then the squall swooped and struck, and the sky shut down over the troubled ocean like a pot lid over a boiling pot. The schooner's fore and main sheets, that had not been made fast, moved at the first gust and began to slit wildly in the wind. The Chinamen cowered to the decks, grasping at cleats, staves and masts. They were helpless, paralyzed with fear. Chaele clung to a stay, one arm over his head as though dodging a blow. Wilbur gripped the rail with his hands where he stood, his teeth set, his eyes wide, waiting for the foundering of the schooner, his only thought being that the end could not be far. He had heard of the suddenness of tropical squalls, but this had come with the abruptness of a scene shift at a play.

The schooner veered broad on to the waves. It was the beginning of the end. Another roll to the leeward like the last and the Pacific would come aboard.

"And you call yourselves sailor men! Are you going to drown like rats on a plank?" A voice that Wilbur did not know went ringing through that horrid shouting of wind and sea like the call of a bugle. He turned to see Moran, the girl of the Lady Letty, standing erect upon the quarter deck holding down the schooner's wheel. The confusion of that dreadful moment, that had paralyzed the crew's senses, had brought back hers. She was herself again—savage, splendid, dominant, superb in her wrath at their weakness—their cowardice.

Her heavy brows were knotted over her flaming eyes, her hat was gone, and her thick bands of yellow hair whipped across her face and streamed out in the wind like streamers of the northern lights. As she shouted, gesturing furiously to the men, the loose skin of the oilskin coat fell back and showed her forearm, strong, round and white as scud, the hand and wrist so tanned as to look almost like a glove. And all the while she shouted aloud, furious with indignation, raging against the supineness of the Bertha's crew.

"Stand by, men! Stand by! Look alive, now! Make fast the stays! Halyards to the dory's ward! All clear there! Pass the end for'ard outside the rigging. Outside, you fools! Make fast to the bits for'ard! Let go y'r line! That'll do. Soh—soh. There, she's coming up."

The dory had been towing astern, and the seas, coming over her, had swamped her. Moran had been inspired to use the swamped boat as a sea anchor, fastening her to the schooner's bow instead of to the stern. The Bertha's bow, answering to the drag, veered around. The Bertha stood head to the seas, riding out the squall. It was a masterpiece of seamanship, conceived and executed in the very thick of peril, and it saved the schooner.

IN making our announcement for the season of 1904, it is a source of much pleasure to say that we will again present to you the merits of the Janesville Farm Implements and Wisconsin Buggies. Years of experience in the making of high grade goods, in which years both concerns have earned enviable reputations, makes it a comparatively easy matter to sell large quantities of goods on their merits. During the season of 1903, Rock County people were large buyers of the products of both firms, and turn in which direction you may, you will find friends to recommend Janesville Farm Implements and Wisconsin Buggies.

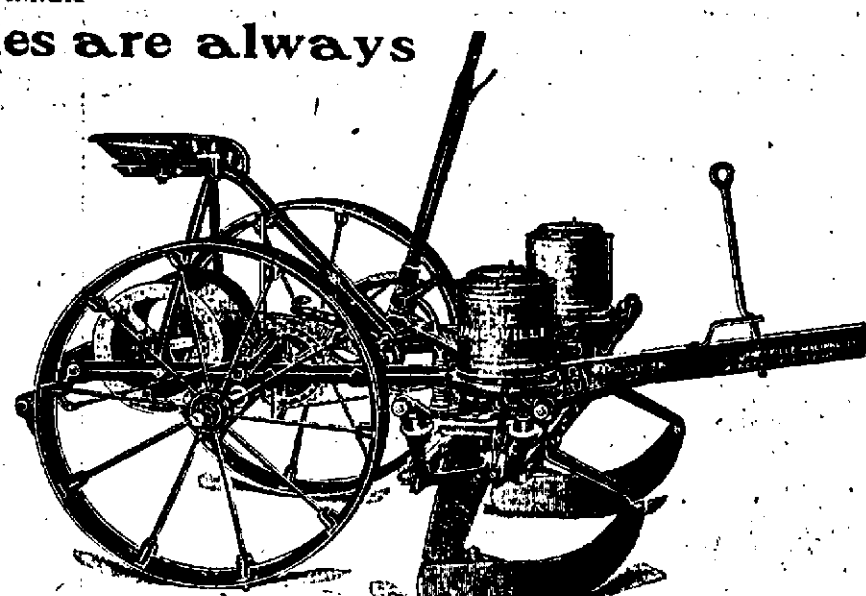

Aside from all other points of excellence these lines have the greatest advantage to buyers in the convenience to the factories for repairs. You get them quick; no delay of weeks when time counts most. MERCURY

A POOR CRUTCH.

Experience is a dear teacher, as those who pin their faith to Mercury find out sooner or later. This powerful poison combined with Potash, is the treatment generally prescribed for Contagious Blood Poison, but failure and disappointment is the invariable result. These minerals drive in the sores and eruptions, and apparently the disease is gone and the patient believes the cure permanent, but soon learns better when the old symptoms return almost as soon as the treatment is left off. You must either keep the system saturated with mercury or endure the tortures of sore mouth, ulcerated throat and the mortification that one naturally feels when the body is covered with disgusting sores, rashes, copper-colored spots and other aggravating symptoms of this vile disease.

Mercury and Potash are poor crutches, and their use eventually breaks down the constitution, ruins the digestion and cause the bones to decay. S. S. S., a guaranteed purely vegetable remedy, is the only antidote for Contagious Blood Poison. It destroys every atom of the deadly virus, overcomes the bad effects of the mercury and cleanses the blood and system so thoroughly that never after are any signs of the disease seen. Nor is the taint ever transmitted to others.

We will send free our book on Contagious Blood Poison, which is interesting and contains full directions for treating yourself at home. Medical advice or any special information desired given without charge.

BAD COLDS AND COMMON SENSE

"Bad colds" are so common that it is customary to refer to them as if they were a species of disease from which mankind could not hope to escape.

"I haven't been at all well lately," you will say to a friend. "Nothing in particular the matter, except I've had a bad cold that hangs on awful long."

We know many chronic sufferers from bad colds and the grip, and a number of them at our suggestion have tried Rexall Mucu-Tone and have found that a bad cold cannot hang on long when Mucu-Tone is used regularly.

There is a lot of good common sense in the Mucu-Tone plan of breaking up this disease. A bad cold or the grip is due to an inflammation of the mucous membrane, the delicate inner skin of the entire body. Catarrh is the name by which this disease is usually known.

Mucu-Tone is a constitutional remedy—by that we mean that it works through the blood to every part of the body. It is a safe, quick-acting tonic, and the first dose causes the blood to move vigorously. This action revives the activity of the tiny mucus-cells, and enables them to throw off the poison caused by the inflammation. In addition to its tonic properties, Mucu-Tone contains medicines that soothe the sore membranes and repair the damage caused by the disease.

At the first appearance of a cold you should begin taking Mucu-Tone. A tablespoonful before each meal, and at bedtime. Persist in this for a few days, and your "bad cold" will not occur. If you can go through one season without a severe attack, the chances are that you will find yourself in better condition next year to resist the disease.

Think of the cases of pneumonia and other very serious diseases that have started with a "simple cold." Wet feet—a draft in the house or in a street car—over-heating and suddenly cooling off—any one of a hundred things that are happening every day, may start a slight attack of catarrh, which unless it is promptly stopped may cause a serious disease or leave the sufferer so weakened constitutionally that he will be half sick for years.

We urge you to use Mucu-Tone. Begin to-day, and within a week you will be stronger and more cheerful—in better health and spirits than you have known for years. Your system will be fortified against disease—the little cold cannot grow into a giant that will wreck your life.

MADE SUPPLE AS A GIRL.

"Few women have suffered as much as I did with my kidneys. So acute was the pain in my back that I did not dare to stoop down for fear I couldn't get up again. I took all sorts of kidney medicine without deriving any benefit whatever. After reading your Mucu-Tone booklet I determined to give your catarrh remedy a fair trial, especially as you offered to refund my money if it did not help me. But I didn't have to ask for it. Three bottles have driven away all pain and I am almost as supple as a girl. I did not know my trouble was catarrh, but whatever it was Rexall Mucu-Tone has cured it and has made me feel like a new woman."

Mary E. Hanley
Southfield, Mich."

You know we mean every word we say about Rexall Mucu-Tone, because we back it up with our reputation and our iron-clad guarantee. All you need to do is to try a bottle. If you do not find that it accomplishes all we promise, come to us and simply say, "I am not quite satisfied," and we will instantly return your money.

You take no chances in buying any Rexall remedy. Your money will be refunded any time you ask for it.

The price of Mucu-Tone is 50 cents and 80 cents per large bottle. Sold only at our store.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday March 18, 1864.—High price of wood. Wood has been sold here, during the week past as high as fourteen dollars per cord, not for a single load only, but in repeated instances, and it has ranged most of the time from seven to ten dollars. If such prices are to be the rule, the poorer class may as well prepare to emigrate. They can not for any length of time pay such enormous prices. To do so would absorb all their earnings, and leave them nothing for food, rent, taxes and clothing. The bad state of the roads and the scarcity of help to chop wood has had much to do with raising the price, but if the railroads were compelled to bring wood at a fair paying rate, it could not be over four or five dollars per cord, and we should secure a better article than we are now getting at twice of three times that price. This is a matter that should have weight just now with our representatives at Madison and we commend it to their consideration.

Reception of the 16th.—The 16th regiment was received at Madison on Wednesday evening in an enthusiastic manner.

Coming Attractions.

Mr. John J. Kennedy, comedian of the Kennedy players who commence a week's engagement here next Monday night, comes of a family that have been connected with the stage for over fifty years. His grandfather was a well-known theatrical manager, and his father has been identified with a number of successful plays and players. Mr. Kennedy has three brothers living who are all successful actors. His only sister Lillian was one of the most popular sopranos at the time of her death two years ago. So it can truly be said that the Kennedys are born actors.

Pronounced Egg-O-See

You can share in the distribution of $1,000 in cash to be paid those who send in before June 15, the word Egg-O-See spelled in the greatest variety of ways. This sum will be divided as follows:

To the one sending the greatest variety of spellings.....	$100.00
To the second sending the greatest variety of spellings.....	75.00
To the third sending the greatest variety of spellings.....	50.00
To the fourth sending the greatest variety of spellings.....	25.00
To the fifth sending the greatest variety of spellings.....	10.00
To the 740 sending the next greatest variety of spellings.....	240.00
Total.....	$1000.00

The prizes will be awarded immediately after the close of the contest.

Everyone can compete. It will be found equally interesting to the older people as well as children to whom we have paid thousands of dollars since last spring.

The only conditions are that you must send in your list on or before June 15, 1904; that the spelling must be such as could properly be pronounced Egg-O-See, and for every five different ways of spelling Egg-O-See you must send in one of the little folders, same as used in the school children's drawing contest, found in each package of the food—that is if you spelled the word 15 different ways you would need three of the folders. Be sure and write your name and address plainly. It is permissible to have others assist you. So when you have found all the ways of spelling Egg-O-See you can devise, ask your friends to assist you. Here are a few ways of spelling Egg-O-See: Egg-O-See, Egg-Oh-Cee, Eg-Ocy, Egg-O-Cle. Save the folders from Egg-O-See and it will be easy for you to get one of the prizes. We do this to further familiarize the people with the merits of Egg-O-See, the best of all flaked wheat foods.

Egg-O-See

It is now conceded that Flaked Wheat is the most healthful, economical and convenient of all foods. Egg-O-See has become the standard of these foods for two reasons—First it is incomparably superior in purity and flavor, and a large package retails for 10c.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR THE GREEN PACKAGE.

If your grocer does not keep it, send us his name and 10 cents and we will send you a package, prepaid.

Women's Wash Cotton Shirt Waists

The Knickerbocker....

The cut represents one of our $1.50 white mercerized waists.

The new seasons first showing of these is certainly fine and the prices very modest. We have sold the Knickerbocker Waist for several years past and know that they are right as regards fit, style and workmanship. They are in a class by themselves. A little ahead of any other waist in the market. We mention a few numbers taken at random from our immense collection.

At $1.00, fine percale, white, with small black figures, black sateen, with pleated front and back, fine tucks front and back, just the thing for common wear.

At $1.25, fine madras with small colored and black figures, standing collar, pique trimming.

At $2.00, waist of fine black batiste is a popular number.

One at $2.50 is made of Oxford Gray, fine cotton, mercerized material, tucking front and back with a tiny black and white checked piping, is a sensible garment.

At $2.25, small black fancy cotton pongee, 9 buttons in front, three in a cluster.

At $2.50, a fine cotton pongee, navy with small white dots, six white pearl buttons in front.

At $2.75, heavy all linen, white, nine small self-shank pearl buttons.

At $1.25, fine sheer muslin waist, white, in small colored blocked pattern, very dainty.

At $1.00 and $1.50, fine sheer white muslin with beautiful Mexican drawn yoke. Exceptional value.

At $3.00, fine sheer colored muslins, pleated back and front, fine white piping or narrow embroidery.

Another $3.00 waist, is a fine sheer brocaded linen, color with red, blue or green figures. A dressy waist.

At $2.25 and $2.75, we have the pure linen white waists in fine qualities, made rather plain. We consider these extra good.

At $1.00 to $6.00, we show a very large assortment in white cotton mercerized materials. Some heavy for spring wear, others of light materials. We call particular attention to these mercerized waists.

At $6.00 and $8.00 we show beautiful, heavy, all-linen, white waists, with elaborate Mexican drawn work fronts, cuffs and collar tabs.

The waists this year are made with the standing collars of the same material with trimming of pique and embroidery. We have a few waists displayed in our window. It is hard for one to get away from the line of waists shown by this store.

Drill Talk

No implement ever gained great popularity without unusual merit. Just think over the following features of construction and inspect the line at our store and you will readily understand why Dowaglac Drills and Seeders are so popular.

METAL FRAME—Metal frame for ten row and larger drills is formed of a one-piece, 5 inch angle steel, solid bent corners, with cross braces to the center beam and supported by truss rods. To this frame we invite the closest scrutiny and ask a comparison with other metal drill frames.

WHEELS—Either wood or steel at same price. Solid hub wheels for gear drive; ratchet hub for chain drive.

AXLE—A continuous cold drawn steel shaft which revolves with the wheels.

HITCH—The Hitch is low to prevent neck weight. Sizes between thirteen and twenty have combination two and three horse hitch or combination three and four horse hitch.

GEAR—All steel frames have chain drive and wood frames gear drive. The 16 and all larger sizes, are double geared. The feed shaft is in two sections, and each wheel drives half the feeds. This is a great convenience in rowing narrow strips and finishing fields, as either half of the drill can be worked alone.

METAL PARTS—But little gray iron is used. Nearly all light castings are malleable; draw bars, lever, and rock shaft, steel. No better springs can be made than Dowaglac Springs.

WORKING PARTS—Dowaglac Grain, Grass and Fertilizer Feeds are chilled and ground to a per feet ft. The Shoes, Discs, Hoes and Shovels are made of but one grade material—the highest.

Let us Explain any points not clear to you regarding these drills.
